A meeting of the Society was held at the library hall, February 7, 1912, and was called to order at 2.30 P. M., by Mr. Fritz H. Jordan, the president, Mr. Baxter, being absent.

The librarian, Mr. Nathan Goold, read a report of accessions to the library and cabinet.

LIBRARIAN'S REPORT.

FEBRUARY 7, 1912.

Mr. President and Ladies and Gentlemen:

My last report was made November 28, 1911. Since that time we have kept the library and cabinet in good condition and have added all that has been given and all we could afford to buy. The library consists of about 43,000 books and pamphlets and the cabinet is all in good condition.

We have added since my last report 164 books and pamphlets, making a total for the year of 545. The gifts have been 108, the exchanges have been 20 and the purchases have been, since last report, 36.

The contributions have been as follows:

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON SOWDON BEQUEST.

At the annual meeting of the Maine Historical Society held at Brunswick, Me., June 20, 1911, the treasurer, Mr. Jordan, stated that it had come to his knowledge that the late Arthur John Clark Sowdon of Boston, Mass., then recently deceased, had made a bequest to the Maine Historical Society of the sum of $2,000 for the purpose of erecting a monument in the town of Nobleboro, Me., to his ancestor, Col. Arthur Noble, an officer under Sir William Pepperell at Louisburg in 1745, and moved that a committee be appointed to enquire into the matter and report at a later meeting whether or not they would recommend that the Society accept the trust. President Baxter appointed as that committee: Fritz H. Jordan, Judge Clarence Hale, Bishop Robert Codman.

Your committee has the honor to report as follows :

Arthur John Clark Sowdon of Boston, Mass., a graduate of Harvard University, Governor-General of the Society of Colonial Wars, member of learned and historical societies, and a prominent churchman, died in Boston, Mass., June 3, 1911. A clause in his will is as follows, viz. :

“To the Maine Historical Society the sum of two thousand (2,000) dollars to be used for erecting, in the town of Nobleborough in the State of Maine, a stone or bronze memorial of my ancestor, Col. Arthur Noble, for whom the town is named, lieutenant-colonel at Louisburgh in 1745, colonel, and killed at Minas in 1747.”

Members of your committee have interviewed the executor of Mr. Sowdon's will, and have also visited Nobleborough and have conferred with Mr. Mulligan, the chairman of its board of selectmen, and others of its citizens.

The earliest settlement within the limits of the present town of Nobleborough was at Damariscotta Fresh Falls in or about 1730. Among its prominent settlers and land owners at that period was James Noble, a brother of Col. Arthur Noble. It was then a part of Governor Dunbar's township of Walpole. Nobleborough was incorporated by Massachusetts in 1788, and through the influence of Arthur Noble, son of Col. Arthur Noble and one of its leading citizens, the town was given the family name in honor of the brothers, Col. Arthur Noble and James Noble.

There is at present much interest among the townspeople in the matter and it is probable that a suitable site will be provided by the town.

Col. Arthur Noble of Georgetown, Me., was lieutenant-colonel of the eastern regiment ; he took a prominent part in the siege and capture of Louisburg, was a most gallant and meritorious officer and in every way worthy of the monument provided for by this bequest. Such a monument will be of benefit to the town and State.

We recommend that the Society accept the trust under the conditions of the will and that a committee be appointed to take charge of and carry out the work.

Respectfully submitted,

FRITZ H. JORDAN,

For the Committee.

HISTORICAL FIELD DAY.

The field day of the combined historical societies, consisting of the Maine Historical Society, the Society of the Mayflower Descendants and the Society of the Colonial Wars, was held at Dunstan, Thursday, September 26, and was attended by about sixty members and guests. Immediately upon arrival the party went to the King monument, where Fritz H. Jordan, Esq., for the Maine Historical Society, gave a statement of the manner in which the monument and land around it came into possession of the Society. He exhibited a deed from John W. Leavitt to the Society whereby the land is quit-claimed to the Society which undertakes to keep the monument in repair and to cause proper fences to be built, etc.

An old fashioned dinner was served at the Wayland at which Hon. James P. Baxter presided, and an address was delivered by Hon. Augustus F. Moulton.

In his address Mr. Moulton referred to the historical significance of the scene of the field day, as the place had long been known to fishermen and traders before the coming to it of any settlers. He described the early changes in ownership that had taken place among the first settlers, and explained that according to the life of Ferdinando Gorges, the name of the locality should be Dunster, instead of Dunstan.

For a whole generation relations with the Indians were peaceful, but in 1675 they were incited by the French and made a sudden attack in September when the home of the Algiers, earliest among the settlers, was burned. The remains of this house had been ploughed up a few years since at Dunstan's Landing. A period of exciting and romantic warfare had followed for nearly twenty years, and the exploits of Charles Pine, the hunter, and Richard Hunnewell, the Indian killer, are among the old traditions of the town.

The speaker also described the founding of the towns, and the building of the canal for the accommodation of shipping, and related that in 1790, when the first United States census was taken, the population of Scarboro was equal to that of Portland, and the people in that town had their full share in the stirring events of colonial days.

He also went into the history of the King family, and then took up some of the ancient traditions of the town, including the bloody hearthstone of the house of William Dearing who suddenly went insane and killed his wife. There was also the tradition of the departure of the wolves, which gathered one night and swarmed around the houses, then left in great numbers never to return.

In the War of 1812 the townspeople were active, and in the War of the Revolution no people made a better record. On the village green at Dunstan where the soldiers of the Revolution gathered, it is now proposed to erect a monument to commemorate the services of the men who died for their country.

The party returned to the city on a special car late in the afternoon, having passed a most delightful day.

NOVEMBER 20, 1912.

The November meeting was held at the library hall, Wednesday, November 20, 1912, and was called to order at 2.30 P. M. Hon. George Addison Emery of Saco, read a paper on "Col. Thomas Cutts and the Cutts Family."

Mr. Goold, the librarian, read a report of recent accessions to the library and cabinet.

Adjourned.

LIBRARIAN'S REPORT.

NOVEMBER 20, 1912.

President Honorable James P. Baxter and Ladies and Gentlemen:

The last report of your librarian was made at the annual meeting, June 25, 1912, about six months to this time. Since that time the library and the old Longfellow House have kept on in the even tenor of their way. They have been eminently successful.

The Wadsworth-Longfellow House was opened to the public on June 17, 1912, and closed September 28, 1912, with one of our most successful years. We had 9,058 paid admissions, but did not sell as many souvenirs as some years. Our admissions have been exceeded by but one year, 1907, when they were very large. It was the second year in attendance. The management of the house is very grateful to the seven guides for their faithful services through the entire season. They all received compensation. This is the twelfth season the house has been opened to the public. Ninety thousand eight hundred and fifty-eight have paid admission in that time, and it is safe to say they are all satisfied. The wisdom of the acceptance of the old house is very apparent at this time, and no doubt will be for all time.

The library and cabinet are in as good condition as is possible with the funds at my disposal. We have added, since my last report, 151 bound volumes and 240 pamphlets, making a total of 391. We have also added to the cabinet many articles of interest. By gifts we have added 262 bound volumes and pamphlets. By exchange we have added 48 bound volumes and pamphlets, and we have purchased 81 bound volumes and pamphlets. Sometime we shall have to use more care in the acceptance of books and articles for the cabinet or we shall be overstocked.
